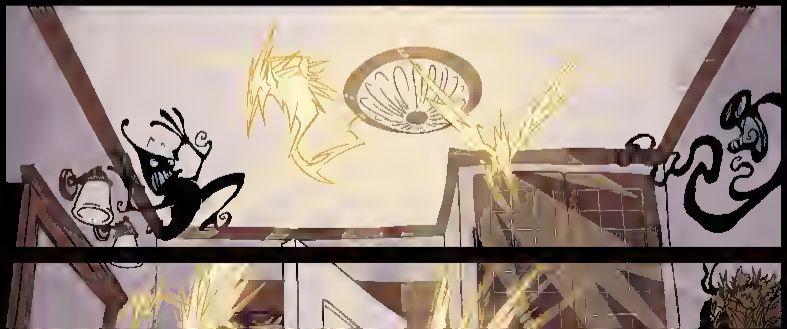
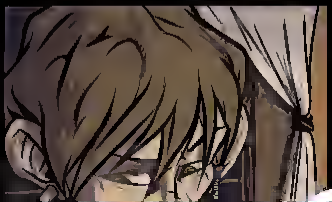
sprained.
Norah.
No time to waste.
While Will is upstairs, tell me everything that happened out in the woods.

Well...
There were dark spirits everywhere.
And they were hunting Will.

I believe they wanted his soul.





Or maybe they wanted the necklace?

Necklace or not, it was Will they were after.
But I didn't think he was a seer?

He's a seer.

He just hasn't opened his eyes yet.

There's one more thing I should mention.
I think the son of the Dark Elder was there...

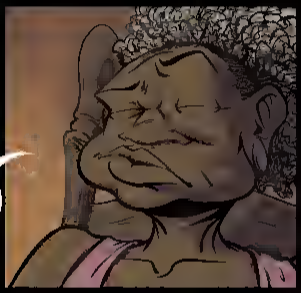
...but I can't say for sure.

I've never actually seen him before. But if it was him, he was leaving the scene just as I was arriving.



Canis.

This is no small detail, Norah.

If you are correct in your assumption, you were quite lucky.
Lucky how?
I wish I'd arrived sooner.
I could have fought him!

Goodness no!
Canis is a very powerful spirit, and an absolute monster!
You are lucky precisely because you did not arrive sooner.

You are a skilled fighter, but Canis would have butchered you.

You would not have lasted long, and you certainly would not be here right now. This I promise you.

So, we'll need more forces!

I have same friends we can call an
We will need much more help, Narah.
But remember, this isn't necessarily a war.
It's an investigatian.
A search.
We must keep our minds on the right path if Kenny is ta be saved.

If Canis is truly the one behind this, the other Elders are the only ones old enough to deal with him.
And it will take clever work to reach any of them.

I've never even met an Elder before.
That's because they hardly concern themselves with the affairs of humans or lesser spirits.
However...

The Light Elder has had to stop Canis many times before.
There's history there.
He might just be willing to help us.
